

Former Unaoil Managers Convicted

14 July 2020

Three former oil executives, one of whom pleaded guilty, have been convicted of offences of bribery at Southwark Crown Court.

The case, arising out of what is said to have been the SFO's largest ever corruption investigation, concerned the payment of bribes to senior Iraqi public officials for the purpose of obtaining contracts relating to the reconstruction of the Iraqi oil industry following the overthrow of Saddam Hussein.

Michael Brompton QC (leading Gillian Jones QC, Faras Baloch & Thomas Daniel) appeared for the Crown.
